

NOKI

Manifesto & Whitepaper v0.3

Nothing Stays Hidden.
Don't Trust. Verify.

STATUS	PRE-LAUNCH
NETWORK	SOLANA
TOTAL SUPPLY	1,000,000,000 $NOKI
TEAM ALLOCATION	0%

A community-first project built in public on Solana.

1. Executive Summary

NOKI is a community-driven project in the Solana ecosystem built around a simple principle: transparency should be verifiable, not merely promised. The project is currently in its pre-launch phase and prioritizes building in public, equal access, clear communication, and community participation.

The purpose is not to promise appreciation or returns. The goal is to build an identity and a community capable of following, questioning, and verifying relevant project information. This document records NOKI's current vision and may evolve publicly as the project matures.

2. The Problem We Want to Address

Many token launches begin with information asymmetry: private advantages, unclear allocations, fragmented communication, or communities created only after the asset already exists. NOKI aims to reverse that logic: first build public presence, documentation, and community; then move toward launch under clearly communicated rules.

The guiding principle is simple: the more important a piece of information is to the community, the easier it should be to verify.

3. Mission, Vision & Values

Mission

Build a community recognized for transparency, equal access, and responsible communication.

Vision

Develop NOKI as a global and verifiable community within the Solana ecosystem, maintaining consistency between communication, public data, and execution.

Values

- Transparency over hype.
- Equal access.
- Community before price.
- Clear and verifiable communication.
- Responsibility for public information.
- Open building and continuous evolution.

4. Project Structure

- Phase 1 - Foundation: identity, manifesto, website, official channels, and initial community.
- Phase 2 - Pre-Launch: expansion of public presence, documentation, transparency standards, and operational preparation.
- Phase 3 - Fair Launch: public launch without a presale, private sale, or free team allocation.
- Phase 4 - Expansion: community growth, integrations, on-chain data, new features, and ecosystem development.

5. Planned Tokenomics

Blockchain	Solana
Ticker	$NOKI

Planned Total Supply	1,000,000,000
Fair Launch	100%
Presale	0%
Private Sale	0%
Team Allocation	0%
Free tokens for founders/team	No
Treasury	Not planned in the current structure

Final token parameters will be confirmed at launch and will be verifiable on-chain. This document does not designate or commit NOKI to a specific launch platform.

6. On-Chain Transparency

After launch, NOKI intends to make key information directly verifiable by the community. The website may evolve to include a Transparency Terminal with on-chain references and relevant public data.

- The official token address will be published exclusively through NOKI's official channels.
- Mint authority and freeze authority will be presented in a verifiable form.
- Supply and token parameters will be verifiable through a blockchain explorer.
- Relevant public wallets will be identified where applicable.
- Any wallet designated for marketing, if used, will be publicly identified with context regarding its purpose.
- Material changes will be communicated publicly before or when they occur.

7. Public Commitments

- No promises of profit, target price, or returns.
- No presale or private sale.
- No free token allocation to founders or the team.
- The official contract address will be clearly published to reduce the risk of counterfeit tokens.
- Relevant information will be documented and, whenever possible, verifiable on-chain.
- Material decisions will be communicated transparently to the community.

8. Community & The Watchers

Community is central to NOKI's identity. The Watchers represents a community that observes, verifies, and participates instead of relying solely on promises.

As the international community grows, NOKI may establish community representatives by country or language. These Community Leads / Country Watchers may support communication, translation, onboarding, and local feedback without the title implying financial authority or an automatic advantage involving the token.

Selection criteria, responsibilities, and any recognition programs should be communicated publicly.

9. Governance & Relevant Decisions

During the initial phase, execution remains the responsibility of the founding team. As the community matures, consultation and voting mechanisms may gradually be introduced.

Topics that may be submitted to the community include content initiatives, language expansion, community actions, development priorities, and other decisions that do not compromise security or operational obligations.

Community governance does not mean an absence of responsibility: technical, legal, and security decisions may require specialized execution.

10. Marketing & Growth

NOKI's growth strategy should preserve the project's identity: community, visual consistency, content, transparency, and public presence. Marketing should not depend on promises of token appreciation.

- Public development content and updates.
- NOKI's own visual identity and narrative.
- Memes and community-created content.
- Expansion across languages and local communities.
- Collaborations and creators aligned with the project's principles.
- Reports, metrics, and verifiable milestones whenever possible.

11. Roadmap

- Phase 01 - Foundation: brand, website, manifesto, official channels, and initial infrastructure.
- Phase 02 - Community: community expansion, content, The Watchers, and launch preparation.
- Phase 03 - Fair Launch: public launch of $NOKI and publication of official on-chain information.
- Phase 04 - Transparency & Growth: evolution of the Transparency Terminal, metrics, integrations, and international growth.
- Phase 05 - Ecosystem: new features, partnerships, and initiatives defined according to the project's real development.

The roadmap is directional. Timelines and features may change according to technical, market, and community conditions. Material changes should be communicated publicly.

12. Official Channels

13. Risks & Disclaimer

Crypto assets involve significant risks. Following any launch, the market will determine the price of $NOKI, which may experience substantial volatility, including a substantial or total loss of value for participants.

Nothing in this document, on the website, or through NOKI's channels constitutes financial advice, investment advice, an offer of securities, or a guarantee of returns. Each participant is responsible for conducting their own research and considering the rules applicable in their jurisdiction.

14. Manifesto

Trust is not built through promises.

It is built when anyone can verify what was promised.

NOKI does not want to ask for trust. It wants to build the conditions for the community to observe, question, and verify.

The project may change. The community may grow. Technology may evolve. The principle should remain.

WATCH. VERIFY. PARTICIPATE.

Nothing Stays Hidden.
